

For more information contact:
Cliff Albert
VP Sales & Marketing
Seda North America
cliff_albert@sedagroup.org

Published by the Foodservice Packaging Institute

Seda International Packaging Group launches innovative, high barrier snack container in the North American market

Seda International Packaging Group has launched an innovative, high barrier snack container in the North American market. The customer and Seda worked very closely from concept and development to testing and industrial production to quickly bring the product to market. Seda is very pleased to share its European innovation and know-how with the US market. The snack container is being well received in the market, offering a sustainable, portable package with high quality graphics for the ultimate customer experience. For more information on Seda high performance barrier products please contact <mailto:info@sedapackaging.com>